INTRODUCTION

The National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (NCCAN), created by the Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act (P.L. 93-247) and located in the U.S. Children's Bureau of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, acts as the principal focus for federal activity in developing policies, plans, and programs relating to the prevention, identification, and treatment of child abuse and neglect.

Virtually every activity of the National Center, in the performance of its mandate, involves the gathering and dissemination of information. Special emphasis has been focused on gathering information on current research and ongoing programs, as well as laws, public awareness materials, and training materials. This information comprises the data base for a computerized information retrieval system which is used by the National Center to answer requests for child abuse and neglect information from program planners, policy makers, researchers, and the general public.

This edition of Child Abuse and Neglect Audiovisual Materials contains information about recent videotapes, films, slides, and multimedia packages, and other audiovisual materials. These were identified through a variety of sources, and many were donated by child abuse and neglect programs throughout the country. There are over 215 items identified and described in this publication. Only items which were actually reviewed are included. The section "How to Use This Catalogue" tells how the audiovisual items are described.

In its continuing efforts to maintain an up-to-date, comprehensive listing of currently available and actively used audiovisual materials, the National Center would like to be notified about materials that are missing from this edition of Child Abuse and Neglect Audiovisual Materials. Send notifications to:

Administration for Children, Youth and Families
U.S. Children's Bureau
National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect
P.O. Box 1182
Washington, D.C. 20013

The National Center is also continually seeking actual copies of additional audiovisual materials, and welcomes donations of such materials, or their loan for review.

You can help the National Center improve the usefulness of Child Abuse and Neglect Audiovisual Materials by suggesting changes that should appear in future editions or supplements. A reader-response postcard has been printed inside the back cover.

HOW TO USE THIS CATALOGUE

Child Abuse and Neglect Audiovisual Materials has two major sections. In the first section are descriptions of the items arranged by medium and, within medium, by producer. The items are also listed in sequence by their 5-digit accession numbers (for example, CA-00124). These accession numbers are displayed throughout indexes appearing in the second section of Child Abuse and Neglect Audiovisual Materials. Each item is uniformly identified and described by the elements labeled in the sample below.

Abstract
CA-00003
Brigham Young Univ., Provo, Utah.
Cipher in the Snow.
color 16mm film (23 min.)
1973
Available from: Brigham Young University, Media Marketing W-STAD, Provo, UT 84602
Purchase price: $265; Rental price: $14 for first day, $2 for each additional day
A dramatization of a true story of a boy who dies suddenly of no apparent cause reconstructs the boy's life and emphasizes the need of every child for love and attention. A teacher investigating the boy's school records found that the boy became inattentive and listless in school at about the time his parents were experiencing marital difficulties; he was a victim of emotional neglect, both at home and in school. The film ends on an optimistic note, with the teacher vowing never again to let a child be so forgotten.

The grouping of items in this catalogue corresponds to media. Multimedia training packages and public awareness kits account for a large proportion of the items, however, and a separate category, "Multimedia Packages," is used for these. The descriptions of these packages include, when appropriate, cross-references to other materials. For example, if a training package uses a film that is described under "Films," the abstract of the training package will include a cross-reference like the following: "For a description of the film, see Abstract CA-00005."

FILMS

CA-00001
American Broadcasting Co., Inc., New York, N.Y.
Children: A Case of Neglect.
color 16mm film (56 min.)
1974
Available from: MacMillan Films, Inc., 34 South MacQueston Parkway, Mt. Vernon, NY 10550
Purchase price: $600; Rental price: $55

The myths and realities of health care for American children of families who find it difficult to meet basic medical costs are examined. The film notes that many of the health problems facing children are readily correctable, but, if left untreated, they may hinder learning, inhibit, normal growth, and, in extreme cases, cause permanent damage. The in-depth investigation of the government's record in the child health care field examines conditions across the country, from major cities to remote mountain communities.

Association of Junior Leagues of America, New York, N.Y.
Television Spots on Child Abuse.
color 16mm film (2 60 sec.; 4 30 sec.)
1976
Available from: Association of Junior Leagues of America, 825 Third Ave., New York, NY 10022
Purchase price: $250.00 (Television and Radio Spots)

The series of four spots emphasizes that child abuse and neglect occur in every community and that help is available. The first spot (60 sec.) depicts a man with his head in his hands agonizing over striking his daughter during a recent rage. The scene ends by focusing on a doll on the floor, limbs akimbo. A 30-second version of this spot is also available. The second spot provides statistics on child abuse and neglect and is accompanied by playground scenes. The third spot shows a tear running slowly down a young girl's face, while the narrator provides information on child abuse and neglect. The fourth spot depicts a young mother and baby playing under a tree, while statistics on child abuse and neglect are provided by the narrator.

Listening Beyond Words.
1973
Available from: Brigham Young University, Media Marketing W-STAD, Provo, UT 84602
Purchase price: $240; Rental price: $14 for first day, $2 for each additional day

The film stresses the importance of listening for understanding, not for words. It suggests that listening is a dimension of communication. Examples are provided of communication failure in a home, classroom, business, and church. These situations are re-run to demonstrate effective communication.

CA-00005
California State Office of the Attorney General, Sacramento.
Child Abuse and the Police.
color 16mm film (29 min.)
1974
Available from: AIMS Instructional Media Services, Inc., 626 Justin Ave., Glendale, CA 91201
Purchase price: $415; Rental price: free to law enforcement or state agencies for 2 days

The film depicts an incident of child abuse in the home and subsequent investigation by the police. Background information is provided on personal problems which may lead to abuse. Specific laws relating to child abuse are reviewed, as well as the legal responsibilities of the investigating officer. The ways in which a special team of doctors and police officers determine that a child's injuries are the result of abuse are also noted.

CA-00006
Cavalcade Productions.
Barb: Breaking the Cycle of Abuse.
color 16mm film (28 min.)
1977
Available from: National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), P.O. Box 1182, Washington, DC 20013

The film is a revised version of "Don't Give Up On Me" (Abstract CA-00008). Increased emphasis is placed on the abusive mother, her feelings toward the protective service workers, her feelings toward her children, and her guilt feelings. New sequences deal with a weekend self-help therapy group in which Barb participates. The film ends with a statement by a lay person who participated in the film, regarding her initial feelings toward abusive parents and the insight she gained into the personal problems that may lead to abuse.

Childhood Sexual Abuse.
color 16mm film (50 min.)
1977
Available from: Motorola Teleprograms, Inc., 4825 N. Scott St., Schiller Park, IL 60176
Purchase price: $750

In-depth case studies of 4 victims of childhood sexual abuse are presented. The women describe their abuse experiences during a weekend reality therapy group, in an attempt to relive and begin to cope with their feelings about the abuse.

CA-00008
Cavalcade Productions.
Don't Give Up on Me.
color 16mm film (29 min.)
1975
Available from: Motorola Teleprograms, Inc., 4825 N. Scott St., Schiller Park, IL 60176
Purchase price: $375; Rental price: $50 per week

The film depicts a case of child abuse and the way in which the mother is helped through a multidisciplinary team approach. The case is followed from the initial complaint to the police, the court hearing, follow-up by a social worker, and Parents Anonymous workshops. The film creates empathetic identification with the parent. The accompanying instructor's manual outlines the goals of the film and provides guidelines for leading group discussions and applying the film's themes.

CA-00009
Cavalcade Productions.
The Last Taboo.
color 16mm film (30 min.)
1977
Available from: Motorola Teleprograms, Inc., 4825 N. Scott St.; Schiller Park, IL 60176
Purchase price: $450; Rental price: $60 per week

The long-term effects of sexual abuse are illustrated in a film which shows the experiences in group therapy of 6 women who were abused as children. Their experiences provide insight into the perspective of the child who is sexually abused. Through the therapeutic experience, the women gain insight into how the abuse has influenced the patterns of their lives as adults. Therapeutic techniques for working with adults who were sexually abused as children are noted.

CA-00010'
Education Development Center, Inc., Newton, Mass.
Broken Eggs.
color 16mm film (10 min.)
1974
Purchase available from: Exploring Childhood EDC-School and Society Programs, 55 Chapel St., Newton, MA 02160; Rental available from: EDC Distribution Center, 39 Chapel St., Newton, MA 02160
Purchase price: $121; Rental price: $10

The film depicts an incident at a preschool, in which the children flout the authority of an older student guide who has brought special eggs to show them. The children carelessly handle the eggs and upset the student, who runs from the classroom. Later the student discusses the incident with her classmates. The film provides an opportunity to examine and discuss feelings, and consider how to handle a stressful situation.

CA-00011
Franceschi Advertising, Tallahassee, Fla.
Public Awareness Television Spots on Child Abuse and Neglect.
color 16mm film (4 60 sec.; 2 30 sec.)
1976
Available from: Franceschi Advertising, 107 West Georgia, P.O. Box 1773, Tallahassee, FL 32302
Purchase price: $3500-$5500, according to market size.

A series of six television spots emphasizes the need to report child abuse and neglect cases to a statewide, toll-free child abuse hotline. The first spot (60 sec.) depicts a 3-year-old girl in a messy, unattended apartment, who shatters a bottle in the kitchen and turns on the stove. The spot ends with the child pulling a pan of hot grease toward her. The second spot (60 sec.) shows rapidly increasing computerized numbers under still photographs of children's smiles. Statistics on abuse and neglect are reported throughout until the final frame, which shows a child with a tear running down her face. A 30-second version of this spot is also available. The fourth spot (60 sec.) depicts healthy babies creeping, while the narration gives information on the numbers and types of injuries children received last year in Florida. A 30-second version of this spot is also available. The sixth spot shows a pre-teen girl clad only in a slip, sitting on the edge of her bed, crying and holding her doll. The narration reports the incidence of sexual abuse in Florida.

CA-00012
Independent Order of Foresters, Solana Beach, Calif.
Fragile: Handle With Care.
color 16mm film (26 min.)
1974
Available from: Independent Order of Foresters, 100 Border Ave., Suite B, Solana Beach, CA 92075
Purchase price: $125; Rental price: free on request

Three actual cases of child abuse are reenacted. The film begins with the funeral of an abused child; the mother describes the incidents which led to the death. A nonpunitive approach toward the parents is stressed in the other two cases, as well as the importance of breaking the generational cycle of abuse.

CA-00013
Mitchell-Gebhardt Film Co., San Francisco, Calif.
Child Abuse: Cradle of Violence.
color 16mm film (22 min.)
1976
Available from: Motorola-Teleprograms, Inc., 4825 N. Scott St., Schiller Park, IL 60176
Purchase price: $375; Rental price: $50 per week

A documentary explores the problems and feelings of actual child abusers. Former abusers recall their feelings of frustration and anger which led to the act of abuse. They reveal how they overcame these feelings and how they presently relate to their children. Also shown are nonabusive parents sharing their attitudes about child rearing. A discussion guide is included with the film.

CA-00014
Mitchell-Gebhardt Film Co., San Francisco, Calif.
Incest: The Victim Nobody Believes.
color 16mm film (20 min.)
1976
Available from: Mitchell-Gebhardt Film Co., 1380 Bush St., San Francisco, CA 94109
Purchase price: $350; Rental price: $40-50 for 3 days

Three women who were the victims of incest in childhood discuss their experiences and their reactions to the abuse. The methods each woman used to cope with the problem and the ways it affected her life are discussed.

CA-00015
National Center for the Prevention and Treatment of Child Abuse and Neglect, Denver, Colo.
Mother-Infant Interaction.
b&w 16mm film or b&w ¾" videocassette (35 min.)
date unknown
Available from: Mike Williams Associates, P.O. Box 564, Manhattan Beach, CA 90226
Purchase price: videocassette, $39; 16mm film, $80; Rental price: $10 per week

The delivery room interactions of 7 mothers and their newborns are depicted. One technique for the early identification of behavior which may lead to problems between the mother and child is demonstrated.

CA-00016
National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), Washington, D.C.
Abusive Parents.
color 16 mm film (30 min.)
1976
Available from: National AudioVisual Center, GSA, Order Section, Washington, DC 20409, Order No. 000562
Purchase price: $150; Rental price: $12.50

Excerpts from a panel discussion by 4 women incarcerated at the California Institution for Women for crimes involving child abuse are presented. The discussion is followed by an interview with Elsa Ten Broeck, founder and former director of a therapeutic day care center for abused children and their families. The interview covers the social context of abuse, personal and family dynamics that may contribute to abuse, and a generic profile of abusers.

CA-00017
National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), Washington, D.C.
Children's Drawings. (Television Spot).
b&w 16mm film (30 sec.)
1976
Available from: National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), P.O. Box 1182, Washington, DC 20013

A series of children's drawings are shown, beginning with cheerful examples and ending with those revealing a distorted self-image. The narration describes neglect and the permanent scars it can leave on a child.

CA-00018
National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), Washington, D.C.
Colicky Baby. (Television Spot).
color 16mm film (60 sec.)
1976
Available from: National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), P.O. Box 1182, Washington, DC 20013

A husband's arrival home from work on a stormy night to an ill-kept house is depicted. Cries of a baby in physical distress are heard. The man launches into a tirade at his wife, who complains that she doesn't know how to handle the baby's illness. The husband storms past the wife, determined to silence the baby. The message is not to take it out on your child when everything goes wrong.

CA-00019
National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), Washington, D.C.
The Crib. (Television Spot).
b&w 16mm film (30 sec.)
1976
Available from: National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), P.O. Box 1182, Washington, DC 20013

The camera pans a child's room, dark except for a night light, while a mother talks about her frustration at trying to meet her baby's needs while her own go unmet. The message that help is available is conveyed, stressing that one should not be afraid to seek help. The spot is also available in Spanish.

CA-00020
National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), Washington, D.C.
The Family Album. (Television Spot).
color 16mm film (30 sec.)
1976
Available from: National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), P.O. Box 1182, Washington, DC 20013

The turning pages of a family photo album show a pregnant woman, an infant, a toddler, and a pre-schooler. The narration reviews the kinds of neglect which can result from poor prenatal care, poor nutrition, and lack of regular medical care. The spot ends with a blank page and the message that many injuries and fatalities in children can be prevented through information and assistance.

CA-00021
National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), Washington, D.C.
The Interview.
color 16mm film (35 min.)
1976
Available from: National AudioVisual Center, GSA, Order Section, Washington, DC 20409, Order No. 000695
Purchase price: $150; Rental price: $15

The film presents an actual interview between the parent of a suspected abused child and a physician. Important interviewing principles and an outline of one approach to gathering important medical, social, and psychological information necessary for assessment and conducting a treatment plan are presented.

CA-00022
National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), Washington, D.C.
Investigating Reports of Child Abuse and Neglect.
color 16mm film (28 min.)
1976
Available from: National AudioVisual Center, GSA, Order Section, Washington, DC 20409, Order No. 000623
Purchase price: $150; Rental price: $12.50

Separate cases of child abuse and neglect are depicted. The dramatization of the abuse case shows the physician's diagnosis, an interview with the mother, and involvement by child protective service authorities. The second dramatization concerns the role of police in investigating a report of children left unsupervised.

CA-00023
National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), Washington, D.C.
The Medical Witness.
color 16mm film (35 min.)
1976
Available from: National AudioVisual Center, GSA, Order Section, Washington, DC 20409, Order No. 000696
Purchase price: $150; Rental price: $15

The film portrays a physician testifying as an expert medical witness in a juvenile court child abuse case. The doctor is shown in a pre-trial interview with the county attorney assigned to present the case in court, and later as an expert witness at the adjudicatory hearing. A narrator highlights the main points made by the film's dramatizations.

CA-00024

Sexual Abuse: The Family.
color 16mm film (25 min.)
1976
Available from: National AudioVisual Center, GSA, Order Section, Washington, DC 20409, Order No. 000612
Purchase price: $150; Rental price: $12.50

An overview of intrafamily sexual abuse of children includes definitions of the problem, common myths, physical and behavioral indicators, family dynamics, and different approaches to the problem. Raylene Devine (Children's Hospital Medical Center, Washington, D.C.), Henry Giaretto (Santa Clara County Sexual Abuse Program, San Jose, Calif.), and Betty Stovall (Detroit Children's Aid Society) discuss the problem and their approaches to it. Family conservation is the primary treatment goal. A simulated demonstration of proper interviewing techniques with those involved in a sexual abuse case is presented, with emphasis on minimizing the trauma for the child.

CA-00025
National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), Washington, D.C.
Three Children Alone. (Television Spot).
color 16mm film (60 sec.)
1976
Available from: National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), P.O. Box 1182, Washington, DC 20013

Two children are depicted wandering through a middle-class home. An infant is crying in the background. The children enter the kitchen, where unwashed dishes are piled in the sink and the milk carton is nearly empty. The older child goes to comfort the infant while the other child starts playing with matches. The spot ends with the oldest child trying to feed and care for the others. The message that neglect leaves scars is conveyed.

Working Together.
color 16mm film (30 min.)
1976
Available from: National AudioVisual Center, GSA, Order Section, Washington, DC 20409, Order No. 000541
Purchase price: $150; Rental price: $12.50

Members of multidisciplinary teams in San Diego County, Calif., Saline County, Kans., and Montgomery County, Md., address the benefits of using the multidisciplinary approach to child abuse and neglect case management. Topics discussed include the ways in which teams: (1) offer consultation and expertise on child abuse or neglect situations before and after court involvement; (2) consider and identify gaps in services; (3) promote the involvement of more people; (4) initiate better uses of local resources; and (5) stimulate intergovernmental efforts. Team effectiveness in disseminating relevant case information and referrals is also noted.

2,000 Children. (Television Spot).
color 16mm film (30 sec.)
1976
Available from: National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (DHEW), P.O. Box 1182, Washington, DC 20013

A playground filled with children playing is depicted. The narrator reviews childhood diseases for which science has found cures, and states that child abuse is a killer that science alone cannot cure. The scene dissolves to a quiet, empty playground. The need to help is stressed. The spot is also available in Spanish.

CA-00028

Borderline Case: Initial Conference.
color 16mm film (30 min.)
1976
Available from: National Institute of Mental Health (DHEW), 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20852

Group involvement in the management of a child abuse and neglect case is depicted. The group, which consists of a teacher, social worker, physician, and public health nurse, responded to a teacher's report of suspected child battering. Causative factors of abuse are reviewed. The roles of the public health nurse and social worker in formulating a case management plan aimed at preserving the family are noted.

Borderline Case: Conference. Part II. (Home Visit).
color 16 mm film (14 min.)
1976
Available from: National Institute of Mental Health (DHEW), 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20852

A home visit by a teacher and social worker is depicted, in which the reasons for the suspected abuse report are explained to the parents. The results of a multidisciplinary team meeting concerning the case are reviewed for the parents, stressing the need for counseling and self-help. The mother is encouraged to express her feelings. The sound track quality of the film is fair.

CA-00030

Case Conference (Including Parents).
color 16mm film (33 min.)
1976
Available from: National Institute of Mental Health (DHEW), 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20852

A meeting of suspected abusive parents and a multidisciplinary team consisting of a pediatrician, social worker, juvenile court worker, public health nurse, and police-woman is dramatized. Each of the participants reviews his involvement with the abusive family and his role in the case. The parents are addressed throughout the conference in order to keep them informed of case proceedings. Family pressures and lack of communication between the parents are noted. Team plans to have the child removed from the home and placed in temporary foster care while they help the parents to resolve their problems are explained. The technical quality of the picture and sound is fair.

Contradictions and Exaggerations.
2 color 16mm films (3 min.; 5 min.)
1976
Available from: National Institute of Mental Health (DHEW), 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20852

Part 1 depicts a therapist who attempts to penetrate a woman's isolation by analyzing the causes of stress in her life. Most of the woman's problems stem from her inability to ask for help, so treatment begins with the client repeating "Help me." Part 2 demonstrates how a therapist can encourage a client to examine himself from another perspective. In a situation involving a client who is unable to refrain from committing himself to excessive demands from friends and relatives, the therapist introduces a game which exaggerates demands on the client to the point of absurdity.

Co-therapy With Parent Group.
color 16mm film (16 min.)
1976
Available from: National Institute of Mental Health (DHEW), 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20852

A group session consisting of male and female co-therapists and two couples is dramatized. Participants are encouraged to improve communication by verbalizing their feelings, which the therapists clarify, and by performing a listening exercise. A simulated argument between the therapists is included to exemplify that disagreement can be healthy. The technical quality of the picture and sound is fair.

Doctor in Court.
color 16mm film (31 min.)
1976
Available from: National Institute of Mental Health (DHEW), 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20852

A pre-trial briefing and a courtroom trial aimed at improving testimony by physicians in child abuse and neglect proceedings are dramatized. Precautions to be taken during cross-examination are noted. The advice offered is intended to relax the physician and to help him present unequivocal statements after having been established as an expert witness. The technical quality of the picture and sound is fair.

The external and internal indications of child abuse in infant fatalities and ways to distinguish abuse from other causes of death are discussed. The need to be alert for inadequate explanations for the death is stressed, as is the importance of notifying authorities of suspected child abuse fatalities. Types of children most vulnerable to abuse are mentioned. Descriptions and illustrations of cases involving beating, biting, scalding, and assault with a blunt object are presented. Information is given on differentiating child abuse from post mortem injuries caused by resuscitation attempts.

Available from: Minnesota State Dept. of Public Welfare Library, 658 Cedar, St. Paul, MN 55155
Purchase price: $19.50; Rental price: $4.50

The program dramatizes the effects of separation on a child who has been placed permanently once, as opposed to an older child who has been placed often. The 3 common behavior patterns of a child responding to repeated separations are illustrated; typically, the child undergoes stages characterized by clinging, depression and withdrawal, and misdirected affection. The case of Marlene, a multi-placed child who is unable to form stable relationships with her foster parents, exemplifies the problems involved. A discussion guide is included.

Purchase price: $19.50; Rental price: $4.50

The story of an abusive father, from infancy to parenthood, emphasizes the cyclical, generational aspects of abuse. A dramatization of the man's childhood reveals that he was the victim of inadequate mothering. Now a parent, he has unrealistic expectations about his own child, which lead to abuse when the child does not fulfill his needs. The need for effective intervention on behalf of the child is stressed. A discussion guide is included.

The major components of case planning are reviewed from a family and professional point of view. A case history is followed through needs assessment, treatment planning, implementation and referral, and case monitoring. The importance of differentiation between problems and needs is stressed, along with the need for consultation, case conferencing, and family involvement. Assessment of the agency responsible for treatment is emphasized. The importance of follow-up by the caseworker is also noted.

Purchase price: $12.50

The filmstrip presents physical and behavioral indicators of abuse and neglect which children are likely to display in a school setting. Physical signs of child abuse which should promote suspicion include bruises, burns, bites, or any unusual marks. Signs of suspected neglect such as unsuitable clothing, poor hygiene, hunger, or sleepiness are depicted. Behavioral indicators such as frequent tardiness, extreme behavior, aggressiveness, passivity, or erratic behavior are presented. These signs are merely suggestions of the problem and must be further investigated. The problem of sexual abuse is also briefly discussed.

Available from: National AudioVisual Center, GSA, Order Section, Washington, DC 20409, Order No. 000561
Purchase price: $12.50

Child neglect is defined and various signs of neglect are depicted. In general, a neglect situation is indicated by threats to the child's health and refusal of assistance by the parents or caretakers. Typical signs of child neglect include abandonment, lack of preventive health care, inadequate supervision (especially of infants), inadequate and unclean clothing, the failure to thrive syndrome, poor parent-child relations, and unsafe shelter. The problem occurs at all income levels, and cultural differences must be taken into account when assessing a possible neglect situation.

b&w 2" videotape (3 30 sec.); color 2" videotape (30 sec.)
1976
Available from: Ad Club II, P.O. Box 18907, Atlanta, GA 30326

The first spot shows a slow scan of a child's room. A peculiar noise is heard, the source of which is a child sitting on the floor striking matches. The message is "Child neglect. It could scar a kid for life." The second spot depicts an older couple listening to the sounds of beating and crying in a nearby apartment. They argue about getting involved, and finally call for help. The message is to report an abused child. The third spot uses a still photograph of a girl's face. The camera moves closer to the eyes and the fear and shame that accompany abuse are discussed. The need to become involved is stressed. The fourth spot shows a boy looking out a window. The camera moves closer to the eyes, while the narration discusses severe child neglect.

Purchase price: $73

A series of five spots on general public awareness carries the message to get involved ("to get help or to give help, call ___"). The first of the series (60 sec.) shows 2 children, ages 3 and 6, left alone in the house all day. In the second (60 sec.), a man making a sandwich in the kitchen late at night hears the crying of an infant next door, remarks to himself that the child always looks underfed, and wonders if she gets enough to eat. He says, "But that's none of my business. Or is it?" In the third (60 sec.), a small boy drawing a picture of his mother tries to reconcile his mother's striking out at him with his desire to believe that she really loves him. The fourth spot (30 sec.) shows a woman rocking in a chair and voicing her fears at being alone and of lashing out at her children in frustration and anger. In the fifth spot (30 sec.), a young Eskimo boy struggles to understand why his mother vents her hatred of her stepfather on him, when he does not resemble the man at all.

Available from: Cornell Univ., Educational Television Center, Media Services Organizations, MVR Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853

Information on Day Care Councils is provided from the perspectives of parents needing day care, Council administrators, day care mothers, and educators. The program is intended to help communities that are interested in establishing a Day Care Council. Examples of 2 successful Councils in New York State, one located in a rural county and the other in an urban county, illustrate that a program must be designed around the needs and resources of each community.

1977
Available from: Family Resource Center, 8016 Zuni, SE, Albuquerque, NM 87108

Types of physical abuse, clues to nonaccidental injury, characteristics of abusive parents, and behavior characteristics of abused infants are described. A doctor explains possible signs of abuse, which include head injuries, bruises, lacerations, fractures, burns, sexual abuse, and the failure to thrive syndrome; photos of each accompany the discussion. An emergency room admission is dramatized, which illustrates detached, inappropriate behavior on the part of the mother. Officers are urged to remain calm and suppress feelings of anger when dealing with the parents of suspected abused infants.

The program reviews types of abuse common among school children, signs that indicate nonaccidental injury, characteristics of abusive parents, and the behavior of abused children. It is noted that in this age group abuse is often the result of disciplining the child, and sexual abuse is more prevalent than reported. A precaution to remain calm and objective when dealing with suspected abusive parents is stressed, especially in cases of suspected adolescent abuse where the tendency to identify with the parents may exist.

The problem of child abuse and neglect in Missouri is overviewed. Information is provided on the role of the social worker; juvenile court hearings; criminal court procedures; proper testimony by the social service worker; reactions of workers, parents, and the public to the problem; and methods of developing awareness of the extent of the problem in schools and communities. Common myths surrounding the abusive parent are dispelled, and the need to recognize the signs of abuse, and to treat rather than punish the abusive parent is stressed. Sections of Missouri law are cited, and dramatizations of case investigation, court hearings, and developing community awareness are included. The 10 sections of the program are described individually in Abstracts CA-00088–CA-00097.

An interview between a pediatrician (Dr. C.H. Kempe) and the mother of an injured child demonstrates techniques used to gather data necessary to diagnose child battering. Factors often associated with abuse are indicated, such as marital stress, social isolation, and unrealistic demands on the child. Medical tests that should be performed in diagnosing cases of abuse are enumerated, and include long bone survey, x-ray scan, and angiography. The risk of suicide in parents whose child has been admitted to the hospital with possible nonaccidental injuries is noted. Narration gives advice on how to elicit the information and summarizes the information obtained in this interview. The technical quality of the sound and picture is fair.

The first spot, dealing with emotional neglect, states that loneliness is a form of child abuse, and emphasizes that children need adults. The second spot asks what it is like to be a child and live in a world of giants. The message conveyed is to be a kind and protective adult. The third spot concerns victims of physical, sexual, and emotional abuse, and stresses that abuse occurs even though most parents want to be good parents. The message is that each child is everyone's child, and children need protection. The fourth spot begins with a child staring into space and then shows several photographs of young women. The hurt that child abuse causes the child and the potential danger it poses to society are implied. The fifth spot acknowledges the difficulties of being a parent and urges understanding between parents and children. The final photograph shows a happy family group.

Both spots are directed at the unseen harm that emotional abuse does to children. A still photograph of a young girl's smiling face and a snapshot of a girl standing and smiling are used. Both versions provide a number for reporting suspected cases of child abuse or for obtaining information on child abuse. The longer version adds that the mental scars caused by child abuse do not always show and that parents are often too close to see them.

The social pressures placed on parents to be good parents are reviewed, with emphasis placed on motherhood. Western culture has so idealized parenthood and the myth of mutual love between a mother and child that any disappointments in the parent-child relationship may provoke a potentially abusive situation. Two cases are cited of women who decided not to become mothers.

The objectives of this program are to apprise teachers, school nurses, and counselors of the nature of child abuse, to prepare them to identify abused children, to inform them of their responsibilities to abused children under the law, and to suggest administrative alternatives. Parts 1, 2, and 3 consist of slide-tape presentations depicting the development of agencies and legislation to assist the abused child, an actual incident of abuse which stresses the responsibility that school personnel have to report, and a question-answer session about reporting laws and juvenile court proceedings of Texas and those of other states. Part 4 provides an overview of community agencies that will aid individuals in referring child abuse cases. Part 5 consists of a collection of supplemental materials.

A comprehensive course on child abuse and neglect consists of a 12-unit core curriculum for uni- or multidisciplinary training audiences, and a 4-unit specialized curriculum for social workers, medical and health professionals, educators, and law enforcement professionals. The core curriculum, designed to last approximately 35 hours, consists of 2 sequences: the identification sequence, which examines types of maltreatment, factors that contribute to abuse and neglect, and legal and operational definitions that promote identification; and the community response sequence, which examines procedures for responding to suspected cases of child abuse and neglect. A training manual that outlines program objectives is available for each unit. Nineteen films and filmstrips are utilized throughout the curriculum.

Guidelines for conducting a curriculum on child abuse and neglect are presented. Suggested activities include a large group meeting, group interchange with the trainer, an experiential exercise to acquaint the trainees with each other, 2 lectures, and a film, "Working Together" (Abstract CA-00026). The lectures explain program objectives and give an overview of the problem of child abuse and neglect, including the needs of children, definitions of child abuse and neglect, characteristics of abusive or neglectful individuals, institutional abuse, and the incidence and sequelae of child abuse and neglect. The intended length of this program is 2 hours and 40 minutes.

Investigation of child abuse and neglect is defined from different professional perspectives. The aims of an investigation include (1) determining whether abuse or neglect is occurring; (2) determining whether the child is at risk in the home; and (3) determining whether the risk is serious enough to warrant immediate intervention. Investigation methods are reviewed. Specific activities include a lecture; a film, "Investigating Reports of Child Abuse and Neglect" (Abstract CA-00022); and discussions. The program is intended to last 2 hours and 40 minutes.

Multidisciplinary and multiagency relationships that affect the community response system to child abuse and neglect are explored. The program includes a group simulation of a community task force established to explore multidisciplinary, multiagency cooperation and potential obstacles to that process. The film, "Working Together" (Abstract CA-00026), is recommended for this unit. The program, which takes approximately 4 hours and 25 minutes, is intended to encourage plans for multiagency, multidisciplinary cooperation in the trainees' communities.

A 4-part training unit is intended to increase the social work professional's knowledge of and skills in the investigation process. Legal issues in child abuse and neglect, and the processes of social assessment and case planning are reviewed. The modules explore the initial investigation processes, the court system and trial preparation, processes involved in determining social assessment, and the development of a treatment plan. Sample cases are provided to simulate actual working experiences for the trainees. The film, "Presenting the Case" (Abstract CA-00075), accompanies the program, which lasts approximately 19 hours and 35 minutes.

The module describes how observation of the behavior of parents and children in suspected cases of child abuse and neglect can provide corroborative evidence. Resources for a lecture, and a filmstrip of 6 scenes of behaviors which test the trainee's perceptive skills are included. The vignettes include scenes of a mother and child at home, children at a day care center, a mother leaving a child, a teacher and child, and a mother and child at a department store. Each vignette is meant to suggest an abusive or neglecting situation to the trainees. The intended length of the module is 65 minutes.

The program is divided into 3 modules. Presentations in module 1 cover the responsibilities of law enforcement, definitions of child abuse and neglect, reporting laws, the juvenile court approach, criminal child abuse and neglect laws, and the child protective service approach to child abuse and neglect cases. The film, "Abusive Parents," is shown followed by a discussion of the propriety of criminal prosecutions for child abuse. Module 2 involves viewing and discussing 4 filmstrips on the identification of child abuse and neglect: "Physical Indicators of Abuse, Signs of Alert" (Abstract CA-00060); "Physical Abuse: What Behavior Can Tell Us" (Abstract CA-00059); "Identifying Neglect: Before It's Too Late" (Abstract CA-00053); and "Medical Indicators of Child Abuse and Neglect: Part 5. Sexual Abuse" (Abstract CA-00058). Module 3 reviews the investigation process, including receiving the report, searching the central registry, gaining entry to the home, placing a child in protective custody, gathering and evaluating evidence, interviewing parents and children, and facilitating the final disposition of the case. The trainees view a film on police and child protective service investigations, "Investigating Reports of Child Abuse and Neglect" (Abstract CA-00022), and develop interviewing skills by participating in an interview role play. The program requires 15 hours to complete.

The training module emphasizes those skills which professionals in the medical field require in the identification of child abuse and neglect and the legal processes which result from such ill treatment of a child. A secondary goal is to make the physician aware of his or her role as a team member for the abusive family as well as an individual with primary health care responsibilities. The following subjects are covered: medical identification, social and family dynamics, initial contacts with families, legal aspects, and treatment and prevention. The following audiovisual materials are intended to be used with this module: "Acute Phase Pediatric Intake," "Doctor in Court" (Abstract CA-00034), and "Medical Identification of Child Abuse and Neglect" (Abstract CA-00066). The program lasts approximately 4 hours.

This program is designed to train in the area of child abuse those professionals and paraprofessionals whose jobs involve them in identification, case management, and treatment processes. Special emphasis is given to case management. The importance of a coordinated, cooperative approach among professionals and the need to function as a team member is demonstrated. Identification and diagnosis, reporting and legal outcomes, referrals and assessments in homes, coordination and case management, treatment, and prevention and support are stressed. The following audiovisual materials are intended to be used with this module: "The Social Context of Child Abuse," "Borderline Case: Initial Conference" (Abstract CA-00028), Borderline Case: Conference. The program focuses on increasing the effectiveness of psychiatrists, clinical social workers, psychologists, counselors, and clinical paraprofessionals in the treatment of abusing families. Specific therapeutic techniques necessary for the development of treatment plans and practices are demonstrated. The development of successful working models is a major goal of the program as well as an increase in awareness of early identification, treatment, and preventive measures when child abuse is a potential risk. Practice in the use of new knowledge, awareness, and therapeutic skills is obtained through a peer consultation model. The elements of the training program are: identification and diagnosis, reporting and legal outcomes, coordination and case management, treatment, prevention and support, and peer consultation. The following audiovisual materials are intended to be used with this module: "The Social Context of Child Abuse," "Child Abuse Materials: Excerpts from Response Modes/Affect Simulation: Vignettes," "Borderline Case: Initial Conference" (Abstract CA-00028), "Case Conference (Including Parents)" (Abstract CA-00031), "Treatment Techniques Sampler: Simulated Vignettes" (Abstracts CA-00032–CA-00033, CA-00035–CA-00038), "Mother-Infant Interaction" (Abstract CA-00015), and "Medical Identification of Child Abuse and Neglect for Non-Physicians" (Abstract CA-00067). Available from: National Institute of Mental Health (DHEW), 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20852

The program is designed to impress upon indirect service providers the importance of and need for child abuse and neglect programs. The major goals of the program are to increase understanding of the problems of child abuse, provide knowledge and an understanding of the services that are necessary, and encourage the coordination of existing services. An optional follow-up workshop is intended to foster these goals by providing models and motivation for the development of additional services where service gaps exist. The following audiovisual materials are intended to be used with this module: "The Social Context of Child Abuse," "Principles of Medical Identification" (Abstract CA-00068), and "Community Models" (Abstract CA-00065). The program lasts approximately 1 day.

Statewide Child Abuse and Neglect Public Awareness Campaign (SCANPAC).
public awareness kit
1977
Available from: North Carolina State Dept. of Human Resources, Division of Social Services, 325 N. Salisbury St., Raleigh, NC 27611

This kit was prepared for use in conducting North Carolina's public awareness campaign in local communities. It contains sample news releases, a public awareness speech, several pamphlets, an audiovisual catalogue, and the radio spots, television spots, posters, and mechanicals for newspaper ads that were produced by the National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect (Abstracts CA-00017–CA-00020, CA-00025, CA-00027, CA-00166–CA-00170, CA-00181).

Prevent Child Abuse.
public awareness kit
1976
Available from: Pennsylvania State Dept. of Public Welfare, Bureau of Public Education, P.O. Box 2675, Harrisburg, PA 17120

This packet of material is intended to promote public awareness and to educate local communities about the causes, detection, and prevention of child abuse. The materials publicize "ChildLine," Pennsylvania's toll-free child abuse reporting hot line. The packet includes a brochure, 3 leaflets, 5 posters, and a card, which lists the ChildLine number and which is available in English and in Spanish.

Family Aides to Battering Parents Training Package.
16mm film (31 min.); 15 slides; manual (45 pp.)
1973
Available from: Trikon Productions, P.O. Box 21, La Jolla, CA 92038
Purchase price: $285; Rental price: $35

This package was developed to train volunteer homemakers to work with professionally staffed child abuse service organizations. The training manual provides an overview of the problem of child abuse, the background and history of child abuse, and guidelines for conducting the 16-hour training program. The slides depict types of child abuse, the types of parents predisposed to battering, events precipitating battering, symptoms which suggest a diagnosis of battering, and pediatric and nonpediatric management of battered children. The film "Women of Valor" (Abstract CA-00044) is also included in the package.

CA-00214
Washington Univ., Seattle. Child Protective Service Training and Research Project.
Indicators of Neglect and Abuse.
2 slide-audiocassettes (6 min.; 9 min.); videotape; manual (70 pp.)
1977
Available from: Washington University, George Warren Brown School of Social Work, St. Louis, MO 63130

Legal, social, psychological, and medical aspects of child abuse and neglect are presented. The philosophy of child protective services is reviewed, with emphasis on the nonpunitive and rehabilitative approach. Common types of abuse-related injuries are described. Detailed information is provided on normal developmental patterns to enable workers to compare information from a case with normal development or accidental injuries. The slide-tape presents medical indicators of child abuse and neglect, and the videotape illustrates normal motor development in the first year of life.

YMCA, Chula Vista, Calif. Family Stress Center.
Family Stress Center Public Awareness Program.
public awareness kit
1976
Available from: Family Stress Center, 577 Third Ave., Chula Vista, CA 92010

A multimedia package of materials publicizes the services of the Family Stress Center, including a 24-hour counseling hot line. Many of the materials are available in Spanish. The materials include brochures, posters, public transit placards, radio spot announcements, a button, and a needlepoint design. The materials carry the messages, "It's not easy to be a parent" and "Who could hurt a kid?"

CA-00216
Independent Eye, Oak Park, Ill.
Dessie: A Dramatic Program on Child Abuse.
play (1 hr. 15 min.)
1975
Available from: The Independent Eye, 1020 N. Austin, Oak Park, IL 60302
Rental price: $200-300, lodging, child care

The play depicts an abusive mother whose 5-year-old son has been removed from the home. Insight is provided into the emotional confrontations facing an abusive parent, which may include isolation, poor self-esteem, job dissatisfaction, and poor interpersonal relationships. The performance is followed by a discussion which enables the audience to share their reactions and feelings. A videotaped version of the play is available for preview.

PRODUCER INDEX

This index lists alphabetically the organizations that produced the audiovisual materials. The producer names conform to the COSATI Standard for Descriptive Cataloging of Government Scientific and Technical Reports. If two or more organizations co-produced an item, they both appear in the Index. When two or more audiovisual item titles are listed under a producer's name, they are listed in accession number order.
